CONSULT 2018

The second annual SecuritySpecifiers Technical Security Symposium takes place on November 3-6, 2018 in Nashville, Tennessee.

Join the second annual SecuritySpecifiers Technical Security Symposium on November 3-6, 2018, in Nashville, Tennessee. While conference attendees gather to learn about today's most important security issues, spouses and guests will have the opportunity to attend a special program filled with adventures and activities throughout Nashville.

The program begins on Saturday with an opening reception including cocktails and dinner. Sunday kicks-off with a Bloody Mary brunch -mixer and a visit to the historic Ryman Auditorium. That evening, join us for a world-class dinner cruise on the General Jackson paddle wheeler.

On Monday, the group will venture to Franklin, Tennessee to visit a Civil War battlefield, upon which sits Carnton, a restored Southern plantation house and the subject of the novel The Widow of the South. Attendees will enjoy lunch at the iconic Pucketts Grocery, followed by some leisurely shopping and discovery in Franklin. To wrap up, we'll head over Arrington Vineyards for some wine tasting before heading back to Nashville for dinner on your own with old or new friends.

We look forward to seeing you soon!

Bring Along Your Favorite Person

We have lots of great things planned for them to enjoy the city while you learn! Nashville is a vibrant city offering endless opportunities. Don't stay home. Join us in a fantastic hotel in a fantastic setting in a fantastic city!

CONSULT Spouse Agenda

Join an amazing group of guests and spouses for a one-of-a-kind experience in Nashville, Tennessee. Make new friends and share experiences. Here's a sample of what's to come:

Saturday, November 3

Join us for our welcome reception and dinner after you check-in where you'll meet old friends and new. Then enjoy a night out in downtown Nashville with its vibrant scene of honky-tonks, bars, and riverfront. It's all a walk away from our hotel.

5:30pm - 9:00pm

Sunday, November 4

Sleep in Sunday morning, if you'd like. Then join our special program that starts at 10:00am, where you'll begin with brunch-mixer and Bloody Mary bar. Then saunter over to the Ryman Auditorium for a special backstage tour of this iconic Nashville landmark. Once a cathedral, Ryman has been home to visits from some of the world's most famous dignitaries and performers and to the Grand Ole Opry for over 30 years. End your day with a relaxing dinner cruise on the Cumberland River aboard the General Jackson showboat.

10:00am - 10:00pm

Dress: Casual during the day - a little nicer at night

Monday, November 5

A short ride from Nashville is the beautiful and historic town of Franklin. Site of a famous Civil War battle, Franklin is now home to quaint shops and restaurants and to country music celebrities just mixing in. We'll leave in the morning for a tour of Carnton, a plantation house turned into a field hospital during the Battle of Franklin. Carnton is the basis for the award-winning novel, "The Widow of the South". Following lunch at Puckett's Grocery in Franklin, you'll have a little time to explore the cool little shops on Main Street. The day's not over because our bus will then transport us to nearby beautiful Arrington Vineyards for a late afternoon wine tasting of some very good locally made wine. Finally, we'll head back to Nashville for dinner on your own and time to enjoy some night life with friends.

8:00am - 6:30pm

Tuesday, November 6

While your other half is wrapping up their sessions, you'll have one last chance to go sight-seeing or squeeze in some shopping. Lunch will be your choice - on your own, with friends, or at the symposium. Whatever you choose, you won't go wrong. Officially, it's all wrapped up at 1:00 PM, but feel free to linger.

8:00am - 1:00pm
